

Troops to Tech Careers

Train. Certify. Work.

Why a career in IT?

At a time when some industries are shedding jobs at an alarming rate, IT offers a wider range of entry-level positions—and more career choices—than just about any other field.

What is a CompTIA certification?

CompTIA is the world's largest provider of vendor-neutral certifications. CompTIA certifications validate both knowledge and skills. The CompTIA A+[®] certification is globally recognized as foundational for a career in IT. Other certifications include Network+[®] and Security+[™] which certify additional skills specific to various IT job opportunities. Earning your certification indicates you're focused, motivated and have acquired a set of marketable skills.

How do I get started?

It's easy! Contact your local New Horizons training center to prepare for your CompTIA certification. The dedicated instructors will help determine which CompTIA certification is right for you. New Horizons provides comprehensive training for anyone looking to advance their skills or take the first step toward a career in IT. When you are ready, you can schedule your exam for a CompTIA certification through New Horizons.

What funding resources are available?

As a veteran you're entitled to educational benefits that allow you to acquire new skills and credentials. Many veterans can qualify for more than one benefits program. Training with New Horizons and certification costs for CompTIA exams are covered by the following funding resource programs:

- Workforce Investment Act (WIA)
- Vocational Rehabilitation and Employment (VR&E)
- Post 9/11 GI Bill (as of October 1, 2011)

U.S. employers are expected to need

155,000

*more computer support specialists and systems administrators by 2016.

(* U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics job projections, 2006-2016.)

86%

The percentage of hiring managers that put a high or medium priority on certifications.

(CompTIA Survey)

400,000

the number of open information technology jobs in the US as of March 2011 (indeed.com)

START NOW!

Contact Barb McCain at

312 676-3980 or 708 288-4461

www.newhorizons.com